QUALITY ASSURANCE/PROJECT MANAGER POSITION

QA Automation Engineer and Project Manager at fast growing start-up (work remotely) – Contract-to-Hire

You
A QA Automation Engineer with a solid foundation in manual testing and testing automation as well as a solid understanding of the development lifecycle and environments. You enjoy immersing yourself in large projects, getting caught up in the details, managing progress and seeing projects through to success. You have an acute attention to detail, compulsion for perfection, the discipline to work well from home and the leadership skills to wrangle big projects.

Us
Adventur connects athletes away from home with locals who play the same sport to play together and have fun. Explorers (guests) enter the sport they play and the place they’re going, browse the list of Natives (hosts) to find the one they like, they connect online and they meet up to share a unique sporting experience.

We’re a young company with a feverish dedication to working smart. We don’t believe in pulling all-nighters. The best development is 80% planning and 20% execution. We want you to have a life. We don’t have a ping-pong table next to the massage table next to the omelet chef next to the vinyl record player next to the hoodie dispensary. We want you to enjoy your life, and to us, that means working smart to get your work done so you can do what you love. We believe in a healthy work-life balance. We work when we want, collaborate when we need to and keep our eyes on the prize.

We’ve got a crack team of full and part-time people who excel at what they do, but we’re only human, and we need help. We need your help ensuring our site works, looks and feels bitchin’, and we need your help managing its development.

Responsibilities
• Hands-on involvement in all development projects.
  o Test planning, manual testing, test automation and defect logging and verification.
• Actively participate and contribute in reviews of requirements, design, schedules, and test plans.
• Apply QA best practices from project inception to deployment and beyond.
• Identify and report defects and track through to resolution.
• Ensure the reliability, performance and functionality of assigned features meet or exceed business goals
• Attend weekly meetings to plan sprint for the week and oversee the execution of those tasks
• Liaise with product development, design and development team to ensure all teams are communicating clearly and efficiently

Requirements
• Strong knowledge and experience applying QA best practices, techniques, and tools
• Experience with automated test tools and automation scripting
• Ability to create, manage and execute test plans and test cases
• Experience with cross browser testing, including mobile browsers
• Experience with regression testing
• Experience with automated testing platforms
• Desire to drive a project and manage team and a take a leadership role
• Ability to communicate effectively between different teams, understand the needs of all members of a project and deliver that information the way the team needs it
• Excellent grammar, proofreading, and project management skills
• Ability to quickly learn and understand complex web products and translate functional issues concisely to development team
• Ability to quickly assimilate into our company culture and work closely with all teams
• Indefatigable dedication to your work, getting it done right and under tight deadlines
• Bonus: Understanding of web development technologies including PHP 5, MySQL, HTML, CSS, Javascript, Angular.
• Super Bonus: Active athlete

Perks & Salary
• Work from home
  o We meet weekly for an hour or so and the rest of the week we do nightly standup meetings on Google Hangouts
  o Work when you want
• We’re really cool
  o Our team is rad
• Make a difference
  o You can do slog through some corporate gig, where you sit in your cubicle and count the minutes, take your punches and hope you’ve got something to show for it in a couple of years, or you can work for a startup that helps people do what they love wherever they go, get in on the ground floor of something really exciting, earn your battle scars and come out on top the best damn QC and project manager there ever was. And you don’t even need to wear pants.
• We offer to start you on a six-month contract for $22,500. At the end of six months, if you’ve delivered kick ass work, we’ll hire you at a competitive salary.

Future: If you do good work for us, and we’re successful in raising more money, and you fit well with the team, we’ll hire you full-time at a competitive salary. The better your work and results are now, the better the site works, looks and feels, and then it grows faster and we can raise more money, money we use to hire you.

This is a fantastic opportunity. If you’re interested and you think you’ve got the goods, join us for a drink one night. If it doesn’t work out, you’re out an hour and up a couple of beers. If it works out, you’re out nothing and up super cool friends, a career and beer.

Email dave.kennedy@advntur.com to submit your resume and cover letter. Tell us what you want, out of life, in your career, on your pizza, whatever. Tell us why you want to get out of bed in the morning.

We look forward to meeting you for beers.