Hello,

I am a project manager at WS Publishing Group, which offers the Let's Leap Ahead line of apps and educational products, and we are looking for an experienced app developer who could help us create and lead a pilot application programming course for elementary school students in the Poway School District. We hoped you might know of some students or recent graduates who would be interested in this part-time position. The developer should have strong communication skills and moderate pedagogical experience or a willingness to learn. Pay would be commensurate with experience.

If you know of a candidate who might be a good fit, would you pass along our contact information (kaitlin@wspublishinggroup.com) or let us know how we could contact him/her?

We appreciate your time!

Regards,

Kaitlin
