MOBILE APP INTERN

Are you passionate about digging into app strategy, architecture, and design, always trying to make a product better? Then this is the position for you.

We are an early stage startup in the process of developing an exciting new app that will change the way people shop. We are moving fast and already have advisors who have been with eBay, Slacker Radio, Mp3.com, Sony, and other organizations.

Now, we are looking for someone who excels at mobile app development.

The right candidate will possess more than a few of these skills:

- Quickly prototype and iterate on ideas
- Demonstrated experience in mobile application development with solid programming abilities in iOS or Android, Java, Mobile Web
- Experience with mobile app architecture, frameworks, development methodologies, and UI
- Domain knowledge on leading mobile platforms and strong understanding of design principles
- Passion for learning new technologies and eagerness to collaborate with other creative minds
- Strong desire for exploring, evaluating, and understanding new technologies
- Ability to hit tight deadlines and work under pressure, and strict attention to detail
- Excellent judgment, organizational, and problem-solving skills
- Exceptional interpersonal skills: verbal, written and listening

We are based in San Diego, flexible with work scenarios, and open to candidates working remotely. Also, this is a PAID position (rate based on demonstrated experience and skills). Make sure you can prove what you have done and what you can do for us.

Send us your resume and a quick note to lamid.jobs@gmail.com to get the process started.
